

Change Management – The key for success in your Projects

We apply change management in our projects to ensure the proper deployment of an SAP Solution. The Project success depends on how well we communicate to the Project stakeholders and how good is the training and support to users.

Change Management mitigates the high expectations during the start of the projects and the deep disappointment phase during the realization and unit testing phase.

